RoughRiders Fan Wins Free Heat Pump From Advent Air, Carrier

End-of-season drawing nets Plano resident top-of-the-line heat pump and free installation

FRISCO, TX (September 17, 2014) – For the third consecutive year, the Frisco RoughRiders, Advent Air Conditioning of Lewisville and Carrier announced the grand prize winner of its season-long sweepstakes.

Aaron and Kim Villarreal of Plano are the lucky recipients of a Carrier Infinity Series Heat Pump with Greenspeed Intelligence, as well as free installation provided by Advent Air.

“All of us at Advent Air are proud to sponsor the RoughRiders and we congratulate them on another memorable season,” said Mike Douglas, founder and CEO of Advent Air Conditioning. “We’re happy to have the opportunity to work with the team and our partners at Carrier to provide the Villarreal family with a state-of-the-art heat pump and installation.”

Founded by Douglas in 1981, Advent Air specializes in residential HVAC for new construction, replacement and service, in addition to commercial new construction and replacement. The company boasts 60 professional employees, including 13 certified field technicians. Every Advent Air technician is certified by North American Technician Excellence (NATE), a leading HVAC certification program.

Last month, Advent Air passed the stringent criteria necessary to be accepted onto The Good Contractors List, underscoring the company’s long-standing commitment to operating with the highest degrees of honesty and integrity. In February, the company was named the 2014 Residential HVAC Contractor of the Year by Contracting Business magazine. Arguably the most prestigious national honor in the industry, Advent Air was singled out from a pool of more than 65,000 HVAC contractors across the country.
